

Comms-care IT disposal services

In a world of increased waste and environmental legislation the disposal and recycling of PC components, IT hardware and all types of redundant computer equipment has put growing pressure on companies to dispose of IT equipment in an environmentally friendly way.

In response to this Comms-care have introduced Comms-care IT disposal services - a disposal and recycling service designed to remove all of your redundant laptops, monitors, desktops, servers, storage units, telephone systems and all other types of networking equipment. The service ensures that all disposals are done in a safe, secure and environmentally sensitive way.

Don't be caught out

With the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (WEEE) directive coming into force along with the data protection act of 2000, sensitive information and computers must be disposed of in a secure manner. Failure to comply with these regulations could result in the following:

- > Minimum £5,000 fine per prosecution;
Maximum unlimited
- > Possible ban from company directorship
- > Civil action from the data subject
- > Costs claimed against your company
- > Possible forced closure of business by the Commissioners office

Comms-care IT disposal services guarantees that all sensitive or secure items such as hard drives are disposed of on site in front of the customer, with certificates issued as proof of elimination so you can be confident that all items leaving your site have been dealt with following the right procedures. Comms-care has also partnered with registered IT distribution charities in developing countries; this will allow communities in these areas to benefit from reusable IT equipment.

Benefits of using Comms-care IT disposal services
